Taxi driver in coma after brutal beating

Brooklyn assemblymembers will introduce bill that makes it a felony to assault taxi drivers ● Alleged assailant is free on $10,000 bail ● Fight started during an argument over the fare

New York City taxi drivers and assemblymembers are demanding justice after a taxi passenger brutally assaulted a driver, Key Chun Kim, in the early morning of New Year's Day during an argument over the fare.

Kim, 53, is in a coma. But his alleged assailant, Andrew McElroy, 28, is free on $10,000 bail.

Kim's family, his fellow taxi drivers and three local assemblymembers — Ron Kim, Ed Braunstein and Walter Mosley — gathered for a prayer vigil in front of Kings County Hospital Center in Brooklyn, where Kim was receiving treatment, on Thursday afternoon. They demanded stronger prosecution for McElroy as well as anyone who assaults a taxi driver.

When the driver's sister, Kristin Kim, heard McElroy was set free on bail and not charged with a felony, she was shocked.

"It was nonsense to me for anybody to beat anybody into a coma," Kim said. "I thought the case was not treated fairly, and without feeling."

Kim, Braunstein and Mosley spoke about the Taxi Driver Protection Act, which would require assaults against drivers to be prosecuted as felonies and for signs to be posted in all taxis warning against such violence.

Kim said legislation about the in-taxi signs will be introduced next week, and he is optimistic that the other piece of the law will gain traction quickly.

"We are here because we are hopeful for the D.A. to bring the case before the grand jury," Braunstein said. "Any kind of assault on a taxi driver should be considered a felony."

Ibrahim Bah, who has been a taxi driver for nine years, was attacked by a group of passengers last month when he refused to allow six passengers in his car because the riding limit is only four.

He spoke out about the need for the Taxi Driver Protection Act.

"Many of us choose to drive taxis," he said. "Why can't I do my job? At least we deserve some protection."

Cuomo enters year with high approval marks

According to a Siena poll released this morning, 71 percent of New York voters approve of the governor and 60 percent think he is doing a good job. "With nearly two years until the next time Cuomo will face the voters, 60 percent of voters are prepared to reelect him," Siena pollster Steven Greenberg said. New Yorkers also strongly support his gun legislation to ban assault weapons. METRO/AB

NTSB: Ferry had damaged propeller

LOWER MANHATTAN. Investigators found a damaged propeller on the ferry that crashed into Lower Manhattan last week, the National Transportation Safety Board reported in a statement released Thursday. Take a taxi to a felony

There's little tolerance in New York City for those who assault transit workers.

- A spokesman for the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office said assaults on transit workers, EMT workers and school safety workers are automatically prosecuted as felonies.
- The Assault on Transit Workers Initiative, in place since 2008, covers bus and subway operator assaults. But there are no such penal laws designated for assaults on taxi drivers, he said.
- Assaults against taxi drivers are treated like assaults against any civilian, without any special regulations, he said.
- Although McElroy was charged with misdemeanors and felonies, according to Bhairavi Desai, executive director of the New York Taxi Workers Alliance, he can only be prosecuted with a felony through a grand jury indictment. But no such grand jury indictment has or is scheduled to occur.

Queens pol wants erotic dancer disclosure

A bill from Astoria Assemblywoman Aravella Simotas aims to expand the information requested on liquor license applications after a bar in her district failed to disclose that it employed erotic dancers. The applications currently list "topless entertainment" as a category, but bars circumvent that by having the dancers keep their bras and G-strings on. The local community board recommended the bar's license renewal because they were not informed it was a "go-go bar," according to the Daily News. METRO

Councilwoman says E. Harlem is most frisked

EAST HARLEM. East Harlem is the most stopped-and-frisked neighborhood in Manhattan, Councilwoman Melissa Mark-Viverito said yesterday. She held a protest and town-hall meeting Thursday night about stop and frisk, saying that the precinct in her district had more than 17,000 stops in 2011. This is the most in Manhattan and sixth most out of all five boroughs, according to her office. The area covers 96th Street to 115th Street. METRO/AB

Man says NYPD used anti-gay slurs

CROWN HEIGHTS. A Crown Heights man plans to sue the city after he said NYPD arrested him and yelled anti-gay slurs. According to the Daily News, Jabbar Campbell said officers responded to a noise complaint during a party at his apartment and rushed him after he opened the door early Sunday morning. He told the News that the officers yelled homophobic slurs at him and beat him, causing a bloody mouth, split lip and swollen eye. METRO/AB

Make it and they will download: New NYPD app popular

The NYPD recently launched its own iPhone app, and in the two weeks since it's been released, the app has been downloaded 13,871 times.

The app was designed in-house by the tech team at the NYPD, according to Web Administrator Chris Apuzzo, with the support of the commissioner's executive staff, the Public Information Office and the Detective Bureau, which runs the Crimestoppers system, one of the integrated features of the app.

Apuzzo said producing the app was "a really cool in-house project."

The app includes a Wanted List with photos, the ability to submit a tip to the Crimestoppers system, crime videos as well as videos showing the internal workings of the NYPD, and crime statistics by precinct.

Apuzzo said Commissioner Ray Kelly and the rest of the force "really want communication to be out there so the city knows what's going on," and there's no better tool for that than a mobile app.

So far feedback has been positive, Apuzzo said, and the app seems to be meeting its goals.

"Commissioner Kelly and his executive staff were adamant they want it very easy to use," Apuzzo said, and a commenter on the iTunes Store said exactly that.

A Droid version will be released in two months.

THE MAN OF OUR DREAMS

Advice

TOM FOREMAN
POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

letters@metro.us

CNN - POLITICS

I have to confess that I, too, have had an imaginary girlfriend. To be honest, I think they all were up until I met my wife. So while I can't pretend to know what was really going on with Notre Dame's star linebacker Manti Te'o, as Chris Rock would say, "I understand."

We live in a complicated world in which many people are not what they appear. Lance Armstrong has pedaled off of his pedestal. David Petraeus ended up with a biographer who wrote not only between the lines but also between the sheets. I don't follow pop culture closely, but I'm led to believe even that adorable little Lindsay Lohan has had difficulties.

Which brings me to Inauguration Day. Here in D.C., where giving false impressions is an art, President Barack Obama is heading into his second term amid all the expected hoopla. Over the next few days, he will be paraded, serenaded, lauded and applauded. He will deliver a soaring speech, shake hands and assure supporters they were right to reelect him. Then he will probably let many of them down.

It's not entirely his fault. It happens to every president, and all of us are to blame. Because campaigns are not merely about what a candidate says, they are also about what we hear. Supporters, like lonely souls on Internet dating services, project their wishes onto the candidate. They convince themselves that their views and his are much more closely aligned than the evidence would warrant. In his first presidential race, for example, Obama was repeatedly portrayed as a radical liberal — then many left-leaning voters seemed astonished when he proved too accommodating to Republicans and big business, and not nearly idealistic enough for their tastes.

Quoted

"Here in D.C. ... giving false impressions is an art."

So the inauguration, even for a second term, is where those dueling realities collide. It's where the imaginary candidate and the real president meet as if on a blind date, and we all get to see what they have in common — and decide whether the relationship we've bet on is one we can live with.

Panetta: People don't need assault weapons

Defense Secretary Leon Panetta joined the gun-control debate on Thursday when he told troops at a military base in Italy that only soldiers needed armor-piercing bullets or assault weapons.

Asked by a soldier what President Barack Obama would do to protect school children from gun violence without infringing Americans' right to own guns, Panetta said action was needed. He told members of the 173rd Airborne Brigade Combat Team at Vicenza that there were areas where steps could be taken.

Panetta, who is on a week-long trip to Europe, was President Bill Clinton's chief of staff when the United States banned the sale of assault weapons in the 1990s. REUTERS

NEW IN THE NEW YEAR

Film & television

1 Nicholas Hoult
Age: 23
Provenance: Berkshire, U.K.
Occupation: Actor
New projects: "Warm Bodies" (Feb. 1), "Jack the Giant Slayer" (March 1)
You may remember these blue eyes from 2002's "About a Boy," Hoult's first appearance in a feature, but more recently he starred as Beast in 2011's "X-Men: First Class." This year, he gets two starring roles: first as the lovelorn zombie in "Warm Bodies" and then as the title character in a retelling of "Jack and the Beanstalk." With a role in 2014's reboot of "Mad Max," we expect Hoult to stay in the headlines for quite a while.

2 Neill Blomkamp
Age: 33
Provenance: Johannesburg, South Africa

Occupation: Director
New project: "Elysium" (Aug. 9)
This up-and-comer knocked it out of the park with the critically acclaimed 2009 alien invasion thriller "District 9" — his first full-length film. That success is rewarded with an equally futuristic drama with plenty of star power and studio dollars behind it. Starring Matt Damon and Jodie Foster, "Elysium" imagines the world of 2159, when the elite have escaped to a man-made space station while the less privileged are left to fend for themselves on the ravaged Earth.

3 Rebel Wilson
Age: 26
Provenance: Sydney, Australia
Occupation: Actress
New projects: "Struck By Lightning" (in theaters), "Pain and Gain" (April 26)
Wilson has already started to make an impact with roles in "Bridesmaids," "Pitch Perfect" and "Bachelorette." In 2013 we'll witness her continued climb to the top of Hollywood's new class of funny ladies with her role in the Mark Wahlberg-fronted, Michael Bay thriller "Pain & Gain." No doubt she'll provide some much-needed comic relief to a drama about three body builders who get caught up in an extortion scheme.

4 AnnaSophia Robb
Age: 19
Provenance: Denver, Colo.
Occupation: Actress
New projects: Robb scored what was perhaps this year's most coveted television role for a young actress: that of a 16-year-old Carrie Bradshaw. Starring in the "Sex and the City" prequel "The Carrie Diaries" on The CW, Robb has the wit and charm to pay homage to Sarah Jessica Parker's iconic performance, yet make this Miss Bradshaw her own.

HEIDI PATALANO & AMBER RAY

Music

1. Savages
Savages' punctuated attack on every song is every bit as vicious and thrilling as their name implies. The sound of this London band is what is traditionally called post-punk (sounding like a cross between Joy Division and early U2) but the energy is 100 percent punk rock. They've officially released a single and a live EP, but expect a full-length soon.

2. Night Beds
Winston Yellen has the sort of voice that could quiet a huge room. It's not necessarily the Fleet Foxes/My Morning Jacket delivery as much as realizing that this is somebody saying something he feels deeply — and there's not much more contagious than that. If his song, "Even If We Try," is any indication, his forthcoming album, "Country Sleep" (out on Dead Oceans next month), will be a stunner.

1 2 3 4 5 6

3. Skaters
Much of the music on last year's "Schemers" EP feels so New Yorky that you can almost hear the crinkle of leather jackets. They have a Stokes-like flair, but Michael Ian Cummings' distinct voice, so often shouting in his previous bands Dead Trees and Furvis, chills out here.

4. Kingsley Flood
The people who helped propel Kingsley Flood into winning a Boston Music Award for Best Americana Band last fall obviously hadn't heard "Battles," their expansive new album due out early next month. On its 12 songs, the band rocks, stomps and digs in with a punk urgency that almost feels like a reaction to being pinned to one specific genre. There are fuzzy basses, horns, eerie keyboards, coil-y electric guitars and tight melodic turns of phrases that bring to mind groups as varied as the Clash and the Shins.

5. Guards
That this trio call their debut "In Guards We Trust" is a good indication of their singular sound. They combine the dreamy sing-along melodies of MGMT with the restrained polish of latter era Pixies.

6. Mykki Blanco
Mykki Blanco, the gender-bending alter ego of Michael Quattlebaum Jr., mixes tribal beats with radical rap. The solo artist follows in the nontraditional path of recent indie hip-hop a la Odd Future, successfully dipping into punk and electro while retaining individuality. When her EP "Betty Rubble: The Initiation" drops in March that will only add to the buzz she generated with November's "Cosmic Angel: The Illuminati Prince/ss."

Release date: May 7
An Advanced Reader Copy of "Red Moon" came to the Metro offices and we can't put it down. A thriller with a literary bent, "Red Moon" is a mixture of a supernatural thriller (hello, werewolves!), a love story and a political allegory. It's going to be your summer read. Trust us.

2 'Tenth of December' George Saunders
Release date: Jan. 8

AHEAD OF THE GAME

Actor and producer Mark Wahlberg offers his recipe for making a hit
'Broken City' adds another shadowy do-gooder to his résumé

GETTY IMAGES

We bet those muscles served Mark Wahlberg well on the set of his latest, "Broken City."

"You've gotta come in with that television mentality. You've got a lot less money and a lot less time."

WAHLBERG, ON HIS RECIPE FOR MAKING FILMS

Need a movie made on a shoestring? Mark Wahlberg might be your man.

The former bad boy rapper turned Oscar-nominated actor and now film and TV producer shared his recipe for making films: "You've gotta come in with that television mentality. You've got a lot less money and a lot less time, but you've got a great piece of material," he says.

The next ingredient is attracting top talent — like Russell Crowe, Wahlberg's co-star in his latest film, "Broken City" — by serving them juicy roles and offering them a share of the profits.

In the crime thriller genre — where Wahlberg has carved his niche — at a time when Hollywood studios are reticent to take risks, it's the only way to stay ahead of the curve, he says.

In fact, he's baffled by massive movie budgets. "I was just in New Mexico shooting this movie in 38 days, and before us 'The Lone Ranger' was there," he recalls. "It's about two guys on horses and it cost $250 million to make. What the f— were these horses doing? Do they fly? I don't know. It's crazy."

By contrast, "Broken City," in theaters Friday, cost around $55 million to make. In it, Wahlberg plays an ex-NYPD officer haunted by his past deadly vigilantism. Now as a private detective, he's been hired by New York's mayor (Crowe) to track the infidelities of the politician's wife (Catherine Zeta-Jones).

The murky lawman is a role Wahlberg has come to love. "I can certainly appreciate and relate to these guys. The bad guy who is trying to do something good is usually the one I root for," he says.

And out of all those shadowy do-gooders, which is his favorite?

He grins.

"Dignam. 'The Departed' was the most fun, because I'm from that world. I've spent a lot of time with those cops and I just got to f—ing steamroll everybody."

Liz Brown
letters@metro.us

Work ethic

Wahlberg's working-class roots are no secret. As the youngest of nine children, he's built a multimillion dollar empire out of virtually nothing — and a near-irrational fear of losing everything keeps him going. "I always feel like there's a good chance I'll end up back there," he says. "I keep that as a possibility and that keeps me focused and working hard. I don't want to let my guard down or feel too comfortable and start being complacent — then you start feeling entitled and everything else. I'm ready to go dig a ditch if I have to, whatever I have to do to provide for my family."

'Mama'

Director: Andres Muschietti
Stars: Jessica Chastain, Nikolaj Coster-Waldau
Grade: ❶❷❸④⑤

Tragic circumstances led to two small children (Megan Charpentier and Isabelle Nelisse) being abandoned for five years in a cabin in the woods. Rescued, they are adopted by their uncle ("Game of Thrones" star Nikolaj Coster-Waldau) and his girlfriend (Jessica Chastain) but the question remains: Who is the mysterious Mama they keep talking about?

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

This film has some nice, subtle creepy reveals, a vivid dream sequence and, of course, the ethereal Mama, who occasionally resembles a giant hairball on the floor, but is eerie nonetheless.

It's spooky rather than scary, but has appropriately creepy kids — the little one even scurries around the floor on all fours like a tiny silverback gorilla — and enough jolts to earn a recommendation.

RICHARD CROUSE

'The Last Stand'

Director: Kim Jee-Woon
Stars: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Johnny Knoxville
Grade: ❶❷❸④⑤

It has been nearly a decade since Arnold Schwarzenegger has led a big-screen blockbuster, but in "The Last Stand," the sexagenarian is proving he's still got some fight in him. The threadbare story of a small-town sheriff determined to prevent a drug lord from escaping into Mexico certainly doesn't break any new ground in the action department, but for fans of the genre it's a welcome and winking return from the former Governator.

Dancing on air, in water, and on film ◗ In two premieres, Parsons Dance explores mourning and the Everglades

SWAMP THINGS

Old favorites and two new works pack David Parsons' dance program at the Joyce. The show opens with Parsons' pretty, lilting "Wolfgang" (2005), choreographed to Mozart; it's Paul Taylor Lite, an homage to the company where Parsons began his career. Next, we get "Caught," a great 1982 piece that uses strobe lighting to capture a dancer — here the hunky Steven Vaughn — in mid-air. At the end comes "In the End," a 2005 party performed to recordings by the Dave Matthews Band.

Former company member Katarzyna Skarpetowska premieres "Black Flowers," a mysterious mourning dance to music by Chopin. Three women in black dresses suffer, haunted by three luminous young men. Are they dead husbands or sons? Perhaps they are soldiers lost in battle?

A Parsons premiere, commissioned by the Wolf Trap Foundation as part of its Faces of America series and excerpted for the Joyce season, is "Dawn to Dusk," an evocation of Southern Florida. Setting dancers against full-stage video projections of wildlife and the built environment, it creates a situation where you ogle the screen and barely notice the actual humans boogying on the floor.

The piece has the dancers immerse themselves in the sunny Everglades wetlands, alongside alligators and an array of gorgeous birds. In front of the screen on the Joyce stage, the same people reproduce many of the same movements — but because Howell Binkley's lighting favors the video, a lot of their work is in vain.

Final score: birds 10, dancers 3.

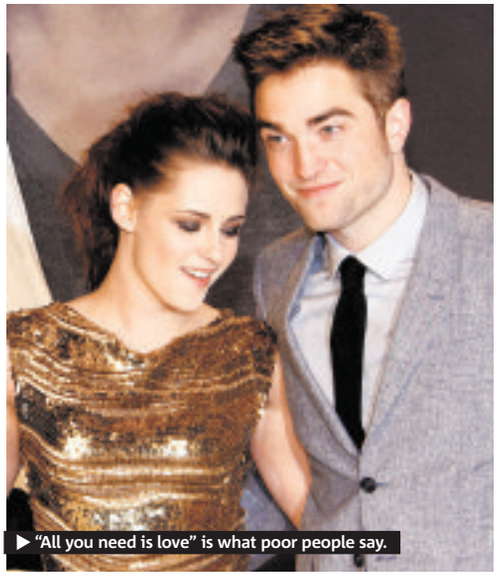
Stewart, Pattinson top highest-grossing couples

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES



▶ "All you need is love" is what poor people say.

We've frequently wondered why Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson got back together. Even before her little fling with Rupert Sanders fueled an entire summer's worth of gossip columns (thanks again, girl!), these two never looked all that happy.

But now, we understand: Together, they've helped the "Twilight" franchise rake in $635 million at the domestic box office, which is only a fraction of the films' $3.3 billion worldwide haul. This makes them the highest-grossing romantic celebrity co-stars, according to a new list from Forbes.

Being involved in real life wasn't a requirement for the list, but it seemed to help. Pattinson and Stewart handily beat No. 2 — "The Vow" costars Rachel McAdams and Channing Tatum — by a cool $510 million. Not even the iconic Carrie and Mr. Big could compete: Sarah Jessica Parker and Chris Noth raked in a mere $95 million for their "Sex and the City" movies.

$635M
Amount 'Twilight' has made in the U.S.

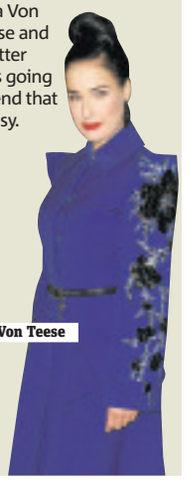
Is it their unique chemistry, or is it the fact that "Twilight" fans will stare at anything that sparkles for two hours? Doesn't matter — for $635 million, we'd throw love to the werewolves, too.

Let's just be really weird friends

The New York Post reported that Russell Crowe and Dita Von Teese enjoyed "a romantic couple's massage" at the Four Seasons hotel in New York last month and have been getting flirty. Now, Crowe has taken to Twitter to deny the story.

"Dita Von Teese is brave, smart, sweet and elegant. She is a friend of mine. Who wouldn't want friends like that? Friends, not lovers," Crowe tweeted.

Be honest: There's no way you thought a story about Russell Crowe, Dita Von Teese and Twitter was going to end that classy.



Von Teese

Betty White is cooler than you

Betty White turned 91 yesterday, and she received quite the gift. In honor of the actress — who is a longtime animal lover and activist — the Lifeline Program adopted a red-tailed boa from the Los Angeles Zoo in her name.

Betty and the snake, Jacob, starred together in a music video to benefit the zoo last year. "Jacob is good as gold and cuddles in my arms," says White in a statement that we could only hope to make someday.

Didn't send Betty a gift yet? She's asking fans to donate to the Morris Animal Foundation.

Talking points

Does Lohan have a job on the side?

Lindsay Lohan has reportedly found a new way to help pay off her hefty debts. Her father, Michael Lohan, and other sources claim that the troubled actress is making money working as a high-class escort, according to Star magazine. "She is getting paid to date rich men," Michael says, putting the blame squarely on his ex-wife, Dina Lohan. "Dina is pimping her out. It's disgusting." But so far there are no allegations of Lindsay providing any services more intimate than acting as arm candy. "The dates last for days, and the guys pay for everything — hotel, travel costs, food, whatever — as well as jewelry and other gifts," another source tells the magazine.

Kidman is surprisingly hard to shock

Nicole Kidman has been getting plenty of attention for her Golden Globe-nominated role in "The Paperboy" thanks to an infamous scene in which she urinates on Zach Efron. But Kidman doesn't get what the big deal is. "I just don't find urination shocking. I think I peed in the beginning of 'Eyes Wide Shut,' too. But then, I don't find a lot of things shocking. Violence is a lot more shocking than sex — sex is primal," she tells the Hollywood Reporter. "I felt shy singing in 'Moulin Rouge,' but peeing — no, not shy."

Kidman

▶ Lopez

J.Lo would like to thank the Academy

Jennifer Lopez's career is doing just fine, but there's at least one item she still has her heart set on: an Oscar. "I think everybody that has ever taken acting seriously would love to be recognized in that way," Lopez tells E! News. "Of course! Why not?" She's even good about keeping her acceptance speech up to date, should the need for it arise. "It changes every so often over the years," Lopez says. "Different people, different things."

6 NYC Restaurant Week menus we're dying to try

We're of the opinion that Restaurant Week is best time of year to be a New Yorker When else can you get a reservation at Boulud Sud or pay just under $40 for three courses at Le Cirque? Our favorites for your taste buds and your wallet

La Villette
10 Downing St., 212-255-0300
At the cozy new French bistro in the former 10 Downing space, start with the tomato tarte — flaky layers of puff pastry generously topped with emmental cheese and juicy fresh tomatoes. If you're daring, or just want to eat as the French do, opt for the braised mustard rabbit as your main. More traditional? The Cajun-rubbed organic chicken breast is another flavorful option. Creme brulee and chocolate mousse round out the menu. Come back after Restaurant Week and order the loup de mer (European sea bass), which chef Christophe Bonnegrace filets for you tableside.

Telepan
72 W. 69th St., 212-580-4300
Bill Telepan is offering a three-course savory menu at the standard Restaurant Week rate, or a four-course menu with dessert for $48. On the savory side, you'll find vegetarian borscht, lobster Bolognese and heritage pork, among other dishes; for dessert, the goodies include sticky toffee cake, quince granita parfait and dark chocolate bread pudding, to name a few.

Greek Salad is on the Restaurant Week menu at Molyvos.

PAUL JOHNSON

Molyvos

871 Seventh Ave., 212-582-7500
Chef Jim Botsacos' Greek menu will have you toasting your companions with a celebratory "Opa!" Highlights include a traditional salad with feta, tomatoes and kalamata olives, pasticio with spiced ground lamb and yogurt bechamel and, for dessert, a chocolatey twist on baklava.

Perilla
9 Jones St., 212-929-6868
Bubba Gump's got nothing on the Cane River Gumbo here (shrimp, andouille sausage, escarole and rice). For entrees, when are you going to prepare Japanese-style grilled smoked tofu at home? Better try it here. As for dessert, we're torn between the chocolate pudding cake with blood orange and the almond financier with oatmeal streusel.

Co-Op Food & Drink
107 Rivington St., 212-796-8040
Lucky for you, the Japanese-American brassiere is serving not three but four courses for Restaurant Week. Choose from the yellowtail taco or blistered shishito peppers to start, and then opt for sushi or fried chicken as you're appetizer — we're just getting started here. Tuck into shrimp and grits, sliders, seafood or a veggie rice bowl for your main, and save room for pecan pie or purple sweet potato pie (with marshmallow!) for dessert.

Try hazelnut torrone or citrus panna cotta for dessert at Isola.

MORGANS HOTEL GROUP

Isola Trattoria and Crudo Bar

9 Crosby St., 212-389-0000
Though raw fish is the specialty at Isola, pop by during Restaurant Week to get a taste of what else chef Victor LaPlaca is capable of. Warm up with cauliflower soup or a mushroom flatbread for starters, and try the red wine-braised short rib cavatelli for a hearty main. If you're craving fish, LaPlaca's take on cioppino incorporates kale, white beans and crostini.

If you go

Get cozy at these tiny restaurants

KATHERINE MILES JONES

▶ At Sel et Gras, the tables are just big enough to fit the dishes.

◗ No elbow room? ◗ No problem ◗ These small spots boast big flavors ◗ Teeny corners of the city where diners live large

New Yorkers are used to jamming into small spaces. Dining out is no different, where it's imperative to ignore your neighbors' impending breakup or new job details while sitting shoulder-to-shoulder. But just because a restaurant is small doesn't mean there's something wrong with the place. We've uncovered some eateries with heaps of enticing dishes per square foot.

Sel et Gras
131 Seventh Ave. South
646-558-5468
At just 224 square feet, this West Village newcomer is taking a cue from Napoleon. General Manager Matthieu Andre has worked in larger restaurants but says this tiny corner of the city is just right: "Smaller is better because it's easier to manage. You can oversee the whole restaurant just by moving your head from left to right!"

CHRISTOPHERHIRSHEIMER

▶ At Prune, the equation is simple: 14 tables, 14 people on the waitstaff.

Prune

54 East 1st St.
212-677-6221
The mirrors on the wall aren't tricking anyone — Prune is a tiny place. But the robust menu and creative flair of chef/owner Gabrielle Hamilton has won some hefty awards, including the James Beard Foundation's Best Chef of 2011.

Dishes like the periwinkles in chorizo broth and the spat-cooked pigeon with warm parsley vinaigrette and liver toast certainly show that there is an extra dose of imagination coming to each tiny, two-person table.

Chez Sardine
183 W. 10th St.
646-360-3705
Sure, the name is appropriate for an eensy little restaurant. But at Chez Sardine, the clean, warm decor and hearty menu invoke an intimate family meal — not a crowded New York nosh. The restaurant group Little Wisco, of Joseph Leonard, Jeffrey's Grocery and Fedora, is filling tables with hearty dishes that are sure to satisfy, like beef cheek curry and smoked cheddar grilled cheese with foie gras.

Can You Learn to Understand the Bible??

"...when you read, you may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ...."
Ephesians 3:4

People have trouble understanding the Bible (especially understanding it alike) for a variety of reasons. But God intends to be understood! That is why He revealed what was once a mystery. Would you like to understand the Bible -- read it for yourself?

Weekend recipe

Veggie Chili

Ingredients:

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 onion, medium dice
1 carrot, medium dice
2 garlic cloves, minced
Kosher salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1 bell pepper, medium dice
1 zucchini, medium dice
2 teaspoons ground cumin
2 tablespoons, plus 1 teaspoon chili powder
2 (15-ounce) cans light kidney, dark kidney or black beans, drained and rinsed
1½ cups water
1 (28-ounce) can chopped tomatoes
Chopped cilantro, for garnish (optional)
Quartered lime pieces, for garnish (optional)
Shredded cheddar cheese or crumbled queso fresco, for garnish (optional)
Sour cream, for garnish (optional)

Instructions:

1 Heat the oil in a large heavy-bottomed pot with a tight-fitting lid or a Dutch oven over medium heat until shimmering. Add the onions, carrots and garlic, and season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the onions have softened, about five minutes.

2 Add the bell pepper and zucchini to the pot and season with salt and pepper. Add the cumin and chili powder and stir to incorporate. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the carrots are knife tender, about eight to 10 minutes.

3 Add the beans, water and tomatoes with their juices and stir to combine. Increase the heat to high and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to low and gently simmer until the vegetables are soft and the flavors have melded, about 15 minutes. Taste and season with additional salt and pepper if necessary. Serve and garnish as desired.

5 Healthy habits to adopt this year

It's easy to take for granted the root of a New Year's resolution — to be resolute. According to Janet Helm, registered dietician and author of "Cooking Light: The Food Lover's Healthy Habits Cookbook," getting healthy — and staying healthy all year — is about starting small. "Your goal should be attainable. If you have success, that fuels greater success and then you can celebrate the little victories."

COURTESY OF COOKING LIGHT

▶ Check out our website, www.metro.us, for the recipe for pasta with black kale, caramelized onions and parsnips.

1 Cook more often
Firing up the stove — say, three times a week — is the foundation of healthy eating. Eating out generally means you'll consume at least 50 percent more calories, and cooking is truly the only way to control what you eat.

2 Eat a healthy breakfast
"When you start your day on the right foot, it leads to better habits throughout the day," Helm says. Eating breakfast helps curb temptations for the rest of the day. Helm's recipes point toward a breakfast with whole grains, fruits or vegetables (or both), lean protein and low-fat dairy.

3 Be a mindful eater
Mindful eating isn't about saying "namaste" every time you chow down — it's about recognizing when you're hungry and when you're full, Helm says. Diets that demonize certain foods make it hard to enjoy them at all, so Helm suggests eating all kinds of foods and focusing on controlling portions instead of restrictions.

▶ Janet Helm's book has recipes to help you year-round.

4 Eat more fish
Follow the lead of Japan and Iceland — where the average life expectancy is 81 years — and incorporate more fish into your diet. Fish is lean protein that's high in omega-3 fatty acids, which protect against heart disease, stroke and high blood pressure. Eating fish two times a week is a reasonable and attainable goal.

5 Be a part-time vegetarian
With recipes like pasta with black kale, caramelized onions and parsnips (pictured) or veggie pizza, Helm suggests going veg once a week, for all three meals. The bonus is that vegetarian recipes encourage experimentation — so reach for the spice rack.

13 Reasons to get out of hibernation

It's 2013! This winter you're finally going to quit the 24-hour 'Breaking Bad' marathons and explore all your city has to offer The following picks are bound to lure you out of your PJs

Learn how to grow tomatoes
Classes at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden
Brooklyn Botanic Garden
1000 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, 718-623-7200, www.bbg.org
Exercise your green thumb (and artistic side) through a plethora of cool learning experiences, such as Basic Flower Arranging, Herbal Aphrodisiacs, The Art of Bonsai and Beekeeping.

Add a new skill to your repertoire
Classes at 3rd Ward
195 Morgan Ave., Brooklyn
718-715-4961, www.3rdward.com
This Williamsburg warehouse is the new hot spot for personal improvement. From classes in Web design, metalworking and everything in-between, this is the place to reinvent yourself.

Take a walk ... through a cemetery
Green-Wood Cemetery
Willow Avenue, Brooklyn
718-768-7300, www.green-wood.com
Need a quiet place? Consider this: Cemeteries are the least populated outdoor spaces in the city. Among the towering elm trees of Green-Wood Cemetery in Brooklyn, enjoy the sculpture garden, do some bird watching and visit the final resting places of some of NYC's most accomplished residents, like Jean-Michel Basquiat and Leonard Bernstein.

Go to high tea
Lady Mendl's Tea Salon
The Inn at Irving Place
56 Irving Pl., 212-533-4466, www.innatirving.com
Over five courses of finger sandwiches, scones and pastries — and, of course, custom teas — it's impossible not to feel the pace of life slow down for one blissful afternoon at Lady Mendl's Victorian tea service.

Get lost in celluloid
Museum of the Moving Image, 36-01 35 Ave., Queens, www.movingimage.us
Explore the exhibitions and maybe catch a full-length feature that you'd never see at the multiplex. This museum, dedicated to the art of film, combines the enriching experience of a cultural institution with the visceral pleasure of one of our most universally shared pastimes.

Play brewmaster
Fifth annual New York City Beer Week
Feb. 22 - March 3

Kristine Opolais, center, stars as Magda in Puccini's "La Rondine."

KEN HOWARD/METROPOLITAN OPERA

Dress up and go to the opera
The Metropolitan Opera, Lincoln Center, 212-362-6000, www.metoperafamily.org
For dollars more than a movie ticket, impress your date with a night at the opera. Our pick: Kristine Opolais' debut in Puccini's bittersweet romance, "La Rondine." Every Monday through Thursday the Opera offers 200 orchestra seats for only $20 each. These rush tickets can be purchased at the Met box office starting two hours before curtain time. Since you're saving a pretty penny, take a cab!

Dine in at Vesta
Vesta, 21-02 30th Ave., Astoria, 718-545-5550
The low-lit Queens favorite is the perfect place to enjoy the winter ambience from a view other than your bedroom. Save room for the warm Baby Jesus date cake: We're pretty sure God himself would find it heavenly.

Play ping-pong (or pool — or darts!)
Break, 32-04 Broadway, Astoria, 718-777-5400
If you're tired of TV, head to Break for a round of pool, air hockey or foosball. The 55-foot-long bar with a rotating selection of 18 beers adds to the fun. Can't look away from the tube? Break has 10 HDTVs at the ready.

Take a circus class
STREB, 51 N. First St., Brooklyn, 718-384-6491
Elizabeth Streb founded Street Lab or Action Mechanics (SLAM) with a goal of creating "a beta-test for a new cultural paradigm." At the lab, try your hand at POPACTION, the movement technique at the basis of Streb's teachings, or trampoline, parkour, tight rope and trapeze — which director Robert Hedglin-Taylor told us to do "once for fear, second for fun."

Hit open mic night
Spike Hill, 184 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, 718- 218-9737
Spike Hill in Williamsburg provides a warm atmosphere to kick back with a brewski and listen to the city's best up-and-coming bands. Every Wednesday, the trendy venue hosts an open mic night, giving local acts a chance to shine.

Take a gallery tour
Two Percent Gallery tours
www.thetwopercent.com
You live in New York City, the Mecca of contemporary art galleries, but you're too intimidated to stroll in to one. For 90 minutes, allow David Behringer, founder of The Two Percent Gallery Tours, to be your artsy best friend. He'll walk you through five of his current favorite gallery exhibitions in Chelsea or the Lower East Side.

Spa the day away
Spa Castle, 131-10 11th Ave., College Point, N.Y., 718-939-6300, www.spacastleusa.com
If a "spa castle" isn't exactly what your body needs right now, then you've just come back from the Caribbean and we're totally jealous. For the rest of us, this is a relaxation oasis to heal all winter blahs, from lack of warm sunshine (Sauna Valley) to dry skin (Beauty Spa). METRO

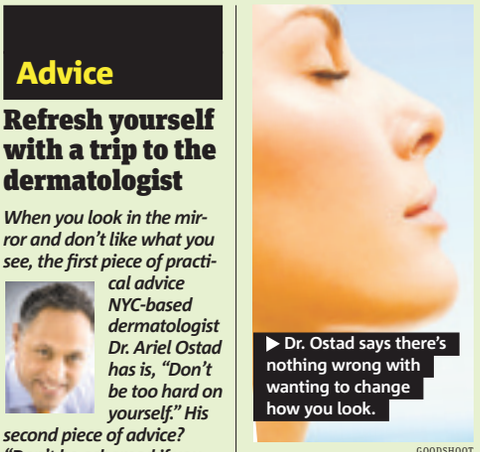
Advice

Refresh yourself with a trip to the dermatologist

When you look in the mirror and don't like what you see, the first piece of practical advice NYC-based dermatologist Dr. Ariel Ostad has is, "Don't be too hard on yourself." His second piece of advice? "Don't be ashamed if you want to look better." We live, he says, in a competitive environment, and there are plenty of nonsurgical procedures that can help you look better and feel refreshed. We talked to him about two hot new ones.



▶ Dr. Ostad says there's nothing wrong with wanting to change how you look.

GOODSHOOT

▶ Ultherapy: "This exciting new procedure is a skin lifting [and] tightening procedure that uses ultrasound to penetrate deep into the skin to cause contractions," he says. Dr. Ostad says Ultherapy is "remarkable" because it helps the doctor see layers of skin and penetrate deep enough to make a change. "In the past, we haven't been able to penetrate the SMAS [Sub-Muscular Aponeurotic System] layer of tissue, which is the layer right above the muscle used by surgeons to pull back the skin." Ultherapy can be used almost anywhere: Dermatologists can tighten the neck and lift jowls to create a much smoother, defined jaw line. They can also raise eyebrows and improve hooding on the eyelids. "I've used it for patients post-pregnancy for the sagging skin, stretch marks and loose skin from multiple pregnancies. It's remarkable."

Tip

▶ Dermatology versus plastic surgery: "These are nonsurgical procedures that have little to no risks," Dr. Ostad says. "Plastic surgery can require a lot more downtime and can change the way you look. These treatments are just modest improvements that won't change your facial structure."

▶ Fillers: Fillers, notes Dr. Ostad, are nothing new. But now there are much better options available for the consumer. "The issue with past fillers is that they didn't work with really fine lines around the upper lips and crow's feet. We now have fillers that can target those lines without lumpiness or bumps." DOROTHY ROBINSON

Horoscope

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. To be on the safe side, it would be wise to avoid issues on which you and your special someone hold strong, opposing views. It won't take much to light the other's fuse..

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Harboring a negative attitude will have a strong effect on the results of everything you do. This will include even most assignments that you normally perform by rote.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. You are entitled to have some fun and enjoy yourself, as long as you don't overindulge or spend too lavishly on your personal pleasures. Both would carry heavy penalties.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Emphasizing only your interests without any concern for those of others will not only turn off everyone, it will lessen your hopes of getting what you want as well.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Guard against a tendency to make a snap judgment based on incomplete information. An incorrect conclusion will take you completely off track and only confuse you further.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. It's never a good day to lend to or borrow from a friend, so don't start now. Discipline might be required in order to avoid doing so, but it behooves you to muster up the necessary strength.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Our behavior is always being scrutinized by our peers, opponents and supporters. Don't try to please them all

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Even if you believe your ideas and methods are better than those of others, they don't want to hear it, so keep it to yourself. Instead, try to accept others' points of view with an open mind.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. It behooves you to be extremely cautious about how you use your money, especially if you're considering a major investment. Make sure you have all the facts at your disposal.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. This could be one of those days when you feel that everyone but you is out of step with the world. Unfortunately, the reverse is likely to be true, and it's you who is not in sync with the majority.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. The only way you'll be able to lighten your share of the load is to acquire some assistance. However, your chances of getting others to drop what they're doing to help you are nil.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. You can be either great or completely horrible about managing your or anybody else's resources. Be careful, because today it might be the latter.

Eat rabbit food, not rabbit stew

RE: "SO YOU WANT TO GO VEGAN IN 2013?" (METRO, JAN. 16) As a physician, I was delighted to see attention finally being paid to the health benefits of a vegan/vegetarian diet. Never has it been easier to explore non-meat options and alternatives, and even die-hard meat eaters are enjoying readily available products such as Garden and Morningstar Farms. I have long urged my patients to consider decreasing or eliminating the amount of meat they eat — not just to benefit their own health, but also to help impact the negative effects of a meat-based diet on wildlife, the environment and world hunger. Last but certainly not least is the amount of animal suffering that can be reduced by enjoying just a few vegetarian/vegan meals a week. There are certainly many reasons to "go vegan," and there has never been a better time. PATRICE GREEN, MD, VIA E-MAIL

These days: Buy a gun, get a pale horse for free

When the founding fathers added the Second Amendment to the Constitution, I think the freedom to own and bear arms had the premise that those weapons would be used in a rational and responsible manner, one that did not jeopardize the safety and security of fellow, law-abiding citizens. In light of our increasing rate of addictions to alcohol, drugs, pain killers and other prescription medicines, not to mention the myriad of other social debilitations which contribute to irrationality and irresponsibility, the public is justified in doubting the sanctity of the earlier premise. A high-powered assault weapon with an extended magazine in the hands of a dysfunctional person is a devastatingly destructive combination. We can no longer be dogmatic about the Second Amendment the way literal evangelicals are dogmatic about the creation, ignoring opposing data and evidence. GLENN HAYES, VIA E-MAIL

With the money NRA from the sale of firearms, and the contributions they receive from organizations and people supporting their cause, it would only be fair that the NRA be solely responsible for compensating the victims of gun violence, instead of the taxpayers — in particular, since many of us are in favor of gun control. LUZETTE ALVARADO-ORTIZ, VIA E-MAIL

Shumpert return goes according to plan for Knicks

Starts, plays 15 minutes in first game back from injury Team blows out Detroit in London

NATHANIEL S. BUTLER/NBAE/GETTY IMAGES

Shumpert had eight points in his return to action.

Iman Shumpert's return to the Knicks' starting lineup wasn't exactly earth-shattering, but it was a success.

Shumpert played — and started — for the first time since tearing the ACL in his left knee in Game 1 of last year's playoff series against the Heat. He scored eight points on 3-of-7 shooting in 15 minutes.

"I thought he answered the bell loud and clear," head coach Mike Woodson said of Shumpert.

The game was a ho-hum affair from the first quarter. The Knicks ran out to a 29-17 lead on the Pistons after one and were never threatened. The final score was 102-87, as New York improved to 25-13.

Shumpert was part of the initial burst against the Pistons, nailing a 3-pointer to make the score 16-2 in favor of New York.

Carmelo Anthony got a chance to return to the arena in which he won a gold medal this summer, with 26 points to lead all scorers. His fellow Olympic teammate Tyson Chandler had 10 points and 14 rebounds.

Shumpert will have plenty of time to recuperate from his first game action. Due to the travel back from England, the Knicks won't play another game until Monday.

Stern: Teams can't eavesdrop

Carmelo Anthony doesn't have a problem with Knicks owner James Dolan listening to him on court, but commissioner David Stern might.

Anthony said on Wednesday upon his arrival in London that he didn't mind the news that broke about Dolan recording opponents' trash-talking toward Anthony.

But Stern on Thursday said the microphones may actually be against rules.

"If a team does something to eavesdrop on other players, they would be sanctioned because it would be against our rules," Stern said.

Stern clarified that anything said on the court was likely fair game. METRO

Playoffs in brief

DOUG PENSINGER/GETTY IMAGES

An emotional Lewis, right, fell to his knees after Justin Tucker kicked the game-winning field goal.

Patriots ready for rematch with Ravens

The general belief, at least in the tri-state area, is that the Patriots' main rival are the Jets.

But with this Sunday's game (6:30 p.m., CBS) marking the third playoff meeting in four seasons, the Ravens and Patriots are developing an intense rivalry of their own.

"We're two emotional teams, so stuff happens out there," Patriots lineman Logan Mankins told reporters Thursday. "You just always have to be smart about it. ... You just have to make sure you never take it too far."

The impending retirement of Ravens linebacker Ray Lewis ratchets up the intensity even more. Lewis was emotional on the field following last Sunday's narrow win over Denver.

"I looked at my teammates after the Denver game, and me and Ray [Rice] just sat there," Lewis told reporters this week. "We hugged on the field, and he grabbed me kind of hard. It's just special. To end it, whenever it ends, then so be it." METRO

Abraham likely to play vs. 49ers

Falcons defensive end John Abraham, a name all too familiar to Jets fans, plans to play against the 49ers on Sunday (3 p.m., FOX).

"Oh, yeah, you know me, you can't keep me out of that game," Abraham told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution this week. "We're going to treat the hell out of it."

Pardon Jets fans if they find irony in that quote. Abraham famously sat out a playoff game in 2002 against Oakland with the flu. But Abraham, who has 10 sacks this season, will be a crucial component in stopping Niners QB Colin Kaepernick. METRO

Schilling to auction sock

If some Yankees fan has a spare $100,000, they can eradicate Curt Schilling's bloody sock from existence.

Schilling is auctioning off the infamous sock he wore during Game 6 of the 2004 ALCS in order to recoup money lost from his failed gaming company, 38 Studios.

It will go up for bid online starting Feb. 4 and is expected to fetch at least $100,000.

Domestic Help / Care

Early-Morning Nanny (Manhattan) Very active family with four girls aged 0-11 are looking for an early-morning household employee who can keep up with our hectic schedule. Ideal candidate will be hardworking, energetic, professional, kind, patient, easy-going, and honest. The candidate must take direction from a stay-at-home mother and work well with other household staff, and should also have basic cooking skills. Must be non-smoking and a good driver with a current license. Job hours are approximately 4:30am - 12:30pm during weekday mornings as well as Saturday night babysitting, but candidate should be flexible. Job includes fixing breakfast and snacks, getting children to and from early morning activities, light housekeeping, grocery shopping, errands, and meal prep. Ability to swim and travel a plus. Must speak and read English, have a strong resume, excellent references, and a spotless background check. Competitive salary. Contact: Brenna at brenna@lkeposcapital.com or 212-588-7416. Principals only recruiters,please do not contact us. Part Time.
